What is Extempo

❖ The term extempore comes from the Latin phrase ex tempore, 'out of time'. It originally used to mean "without preparation".

❖ These days it usually comes up when a performer is improvising or a speech is off script.

Importance of Reading Books

-by Swati, India

MENTAL CAPACITY

Reading develops the mind's ability to think in a much bigger scopeit rather enables you to think on subjects and people you thought never existed .It has always made me think much more deeper into number of subjects I may never have thought about

VOCABULARY

The new words and phrases you learn during the course of reading is tremendous .I always realized that reading gives you an edge during conversations and discussions whether person or professional since are able to converge in style.

CULTURE HARMONY

The easiest way to understand the various cultures and practices that exist in this world is through reading .this has helped me tremendously and it gives a thorough insight into the way people think and act in course of personal or business discussions.

CONCENTRATION

An Intersting read , whether personal development or a business, engross you into the topic so much that you kind of become a part of story .this provides a clear focus on the subjects and exercise your brain to think ahead and try to analyse the next steps. I like this as it charges you up . At times read the whole book in one sitting and those 4 or 5 hours are as I am acting out the story .

Youth Opportunities

Chitteti Chandana, India

Opportunity can be called as chance or possibility for a person to make them financially independent or path to achieving that. Considering India, there are more than 50% of the population below the age of 25 which constitutes a lot of workforce, Whereas the youth unemployment rate is 22.90% may include the educated people who are unemployed.

Opportunities :

There are numerous fields and opportunities in India where one can explore which may include the IT sector, Engineering infrastructure artistic, Agriculture etc. Developing respective skills are the most important trait here. The booming IT sector is creating plenty of job opportunities for all the educated cohorts and the ones dependent on the IT sector and around them including real estate, food, medication, Education, entertainment etc. the amenities that people are depended.

Likewise government is also encouraging youth to be self-employed by Conducting various schemes like skill development programs, Encouraging youth to startup businesses with Make In India projects, Pradhan Mantri Kaushal Vikas Yojana (PMKVY), Skills Acquisition and Knowledge Awareness for Livelihood Program (SANKALP), Entrepreneurship Development Programme (EDP) etc.

Compared to the past decade in the present digital era, we have resources right in our hands that encourage learning and acquisition of skills which may include several learning platforms,

Skill development internships, Jobs search platforms. In this fast paced era the stretch in jobs are high with e-business opportunities like Flipkart, Food delivery, Grocery marts online, clothing etc and the social media marketing many could take part time and full time opportunities. Even though we find the opportunities, the people per job opportunity prevails maybe due to lack of skill, education, safety etc. The gap keeps on increasing mainly incase of rural india where people need proper guidance for education, skill development, and also mainly to acknowledge them of opportunities.

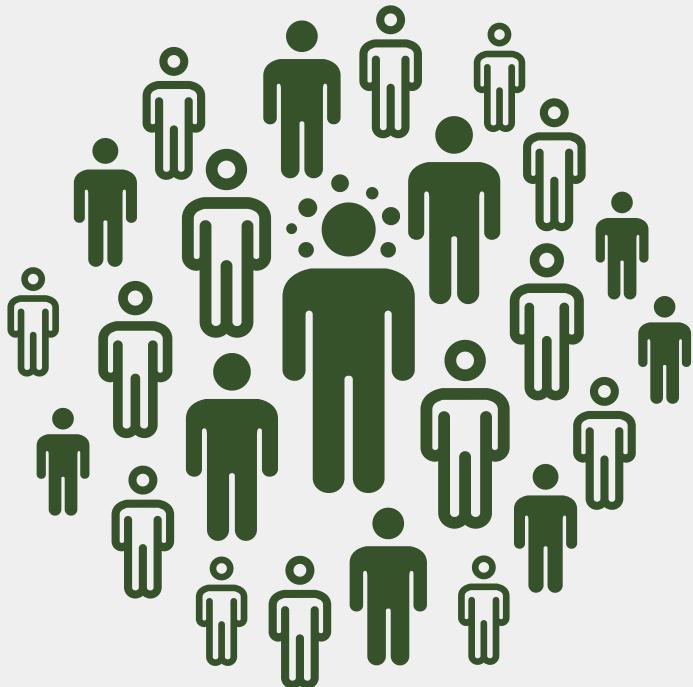

Indian Youth

Tanmoy Bachar, India

Indian youth is not a homogeneous category, it has different characteristics from different sections of society. Youth is divided into the lines of economic division, rural-urban areas, regional differences, and so on. Much depends on the family background and the socialization process in the family, peer group, and school and college education. The family background of youth decides their ambitions and level of aspirations.

Lack of proper educational opportunities and training in appropriate skills ask of job opportunities increase frustration s among youth. Middle-class urban youth has more exposure to new developments Rand opportunities and failure in various attempts makes him Aggressive.

Violence on campuses of higher learning is the result of this frustration. Political parties also exploit youth for their vested interests. Proper guidance and appropriate opportunities could guide youth to indulge in constructive nation-building. Youth from higher economic sections are in a hurry to leave the country to get opportunities in foreign countries because according to them there is no future for them in this country!

They do not have any commitment to their own country. Human resource development has been neglected by successive governments and the present-day youth has to face the consequences till all those young aspirants who are capable of fighting all the odds can achieve their ambitions inside the country as well as Abroad.

Practicing Self-Care and Self-Love

-by Krishangi Agarwal India

Today's generation popularly referred to as the Gen-Z is so engaged in idealizing their social media lives that they allow public opinion to take a toll on them. This engagement and allowance of unsolicited opinions harm their mental health and adversely affect their ways of living. What they do not understand or consider is the importance of self-awareness and practicing self-care along with self-love and not allowing others to dictate their choice of life. As vital, as it is to be receptive to criticisms, it is also significant to be vocal about the things that bother them. The youth needs to appreciate what they have and their worth more than others ever will.

Problems like overthinking, anxiety, and depression have become more common in the present generation than the world had ever faced mainly due to the advent of a toxic environment online as well as offline.

It has a crippling effect and makes them feel like an unreliable witness to their own lives. It is essential for us to realize that the world is a platform where people get judged either way, so we might as well do what makes us happy. The greatest journey is in finding ourselves and every step to self-improvement is liberating. Taking accountability to create a different reality and abundance mindset is superior to ones with a restrictive thought process. It is of chief necessity to be kind not only to others but to own selves as well.

"One can't pour from an empty cup and it is okay to say "no" to stuff that has a pounding consequence".

It does not make one less kind or generous, because that simple, yet sometimes hard to say, the two-lettered word can help us take better care of ourselves and take control over our lives which enables us to love people around us better. Every day we must affirm positive convictions and stop being overly critical of ourselves. Making happiness a habit should be the vibe from this very moment. There's no particular time to start working on self-development and the very first step is to avoid every aspect of life which hampers self-confidence.

Taking the time and frequent breaks to make the souls happy helps in growth. It can be incredibly difficult when juggling daily gaslighting and many other draining aspects and it is important to remember that asking to be treated right is not a sign of weakness. We, the youth, are the future of the world, and letting others manipulate our decisions not only plays with our success but also brings the world to a halt.

""We need to build ourselves stronger as the path is invisible, it is the destination that matters to others.""

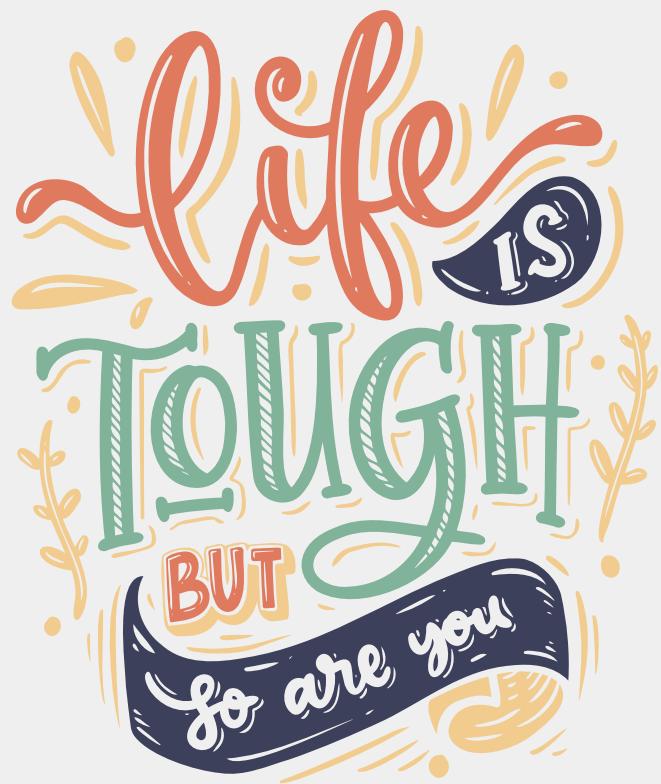

There are things beyond our control and it is just an indication to free them from the mind as well. Change is a beautiful phenomenon and it is a good thing to change for the better. If we feel comfortable with the change, then we must permit no one to denounce us. Not all days are the same and sometimes it can take a lot of work to just be okay and that must be contemplated fine.

We are much more than the lies we hear and it is of utmost need to keep moving because these voices will stop lingering around once we reach the height of triumph. We need to identify our true friends who'll be there at our worse and will motivate us for being the best versions of ourselves. Hence, working on self is not selfish but improves our lifestyles.

Indi Chords

Debolina Majumdar, India

Everything was going smoothly and then two of our members decided to leave the band because of educational issues , they were not able to balance both music and studies, so with heart full of emotions we had to move on without them. Afterwards we had to struggle for another 1-2 months in finding another keyboardist for our band. We were able to get back to pace after almost a year and was offered a live music event in a cafe in New Delhi .

Next, think of a compelling feature for your cover story. This will be what draws your audience in. Make sure that you have accompanying visual content that immediately catches the eye. Include photos, illustrations, and other graphics to match. Appeal to your audience, choose the right fonts and images,

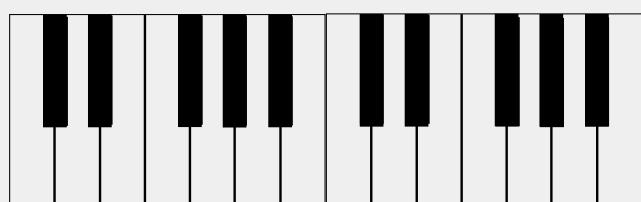

The formation of the band was during the pandemic in a hope to put a smile on everyone's face through our music . We started off as a group of 5 members, who were fully dedicated and determined to make our band reach the highest peak. We came up with our first cover music which was released on Instagram

Once this show went a superhit,we had a roller coaster of experiences. We were offered a lot of private shows, social shows & paid shows. We had a lot of fun practicing for the show, had some little disagreements but always came to conclusions and gave our best during all the shows and always gave our audience whether it be online or offline a reason to smile .

The World's Music Day ,21st of June 2020 and were really overwhelmed with the response and you'll have a magazine that people will remember for years to come.

Youth Opportunities

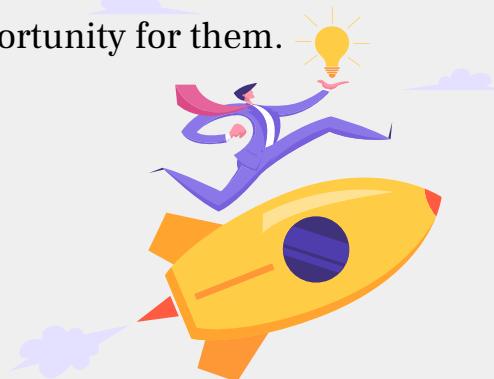

-by Talha, India

The age bracket of 15 – 35 year is considered as youth in general. Youth are the most important citizen for any country. They are the working population in the country. So, there must be proper opportunity for them. So, the youth must be provided proper health and education so that they can be made a useful resource for the country.

The opportunity for youth in the contemporary world is not limited. Some of the opportunities are (but not limited to)

In Engineering field:

Many students opt to go for engineering related field. Youth brings innovation and ideas. There is also tremendous opportunity for them.

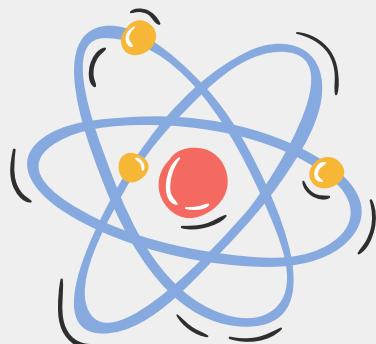

In Start-ups:

There is a lot of opportunity of in startups. Government also helping the youth is setting up startup companies.

Academics and Teaching

Youth are encouraged in academics and teaching related to the fields in schools, universities and other coaching and training centers.

In Research:

Many youths are doing research in many sciences and inter-discipline subject related research.

Medicines and health

Medicine and health sector also need new ideas as diseases now days are changing rapidly. So, there are lots of incoming opportunity for youth. Only requirement is skills, education and good health.

Youth Opportunities

-by Kesar Mundra, India

In most parts of the world, many young people are unemployed. Numerous women from around the world do not get job offers due to the difference made by society. Society needs to change its mindset, by equalizing the gender. Youth is not a challenge in life, waiting to be solved. It is just a phase in life which helps in making a person what he or she is today.

What do young people want?

Technology: Lack of technology around the world makes it difficult for people, more likely students, to access information, accelerated learning, and fun opportunities to practice what they learn. It enables students to explore new subjects and deepen their understanding of difficult concepts, particularly in STEM. In Africa, Ghana, Richard Appiah Akoto, a computer teacher in Ghana school, drew Microsoft Word window on chalkboard simply because his school did not have computers. Youth opportunities like technology are needed in rural parts of the world.

Job offers closer to homes: Young people are beginning to realise that when they migrate to large cities for jobs, much of their income goes into taking care of their everyday needs; there is little left over as savings, or for investing in their future. Furthermore, the pandemic has added an additional layer of complexity. Families are reluctant to let their children travel far for work concerning their safety.

Despite falling household incomes, families are discouraging youth from taking up jobs far from their homeland. We need to understand what our youth want, not what they need. As we struggle with choices that young people make today, it's important for us to understand the changing world.

Social Media

-by Deepesh Aggarwal, India

As we can see that Adore India is active on both Instagram and LinkedIn and has a following of more than 1.5k and 3k on both platforms respectively. Both platforms have strong following but the interactions in the posts are not as much as it could be. So I would suggest to preferably use Instagram more to unleash the potential of Instagram for promoting our business and its work and to post regularly on it.

This is because as these social media app AI works in the way that those pages which post quite often. posts regularly at appropriate time frames get more reach and interaction also on Instagram we can use the medium of putting up stories, polls and interactive quizzes to increase engagement and these mediums are not available in LinkedIn although LinkedIn is to be used to remain connected with the employees of the organization and to remain connected with other organizations and professionals and Instagram can be used for connection and interacting with general public.

I would sell the idea of the campaign proposal to the client by showing all our previous works that our organization has completed and our projects that we have shared on social media. The results of all those projects successfully completed by Adore India will be readily available on these platforms can encourage the client to work with us. In this way social media can help us in fulfilling targets by connecting with prospective clients and achieving all the goals of the organization.

The current social media activities of Adore in place are doing well but there is a lot of potential I can see in it. I observed that although there are a lot of posts present on linkedin as well as instagram but one trend I noticed that they were not regular like many of the posts were uploaded either suddenly or the page was not active for weeks and after joining the organization I would like to change this trend, even if we don't have big projects outcome to post, we can upload few pics from the regular workshops at proper time frames like posting in the evening bring maximum engagement on posts and I will try to utilize this AI of these social media applications.

I would determine whether or not a strategy has been successful is by analyzing the viewership on it, likes, comments and shares etc. which can determine the interaction and engagement on the posts and how well it is doing in promoting our work and we can also do exceptional posts promotion on instagram and facebook. On twitter and Linkedin we can follow similar steps and with comparison from pasts we can analyze if our posts are doing well or is there a room for improvement. If there is constant growth then our strategies can be deemed as successful. Currently, there is no big improvement has taken place in any of the social media platforms but there are minor updates that Instagram has recently added a like tab in stories also which can help in tracking the engagement of audience with stories also, Twitter has added a follow tab of the same account just right of the username of the person in his/her tweets so that it will be easy for viewers to follow their favorite accounts without any extra efforts, linked also now allow the posters to add various hashtags in the posts to increase its reach.

Youth Opportunity

-by Punit ghosh, India

Young people who are between the ages of 16 to 24 years old and are disconnected from school and work. This developmental time period, also referred to as emerging adulthood. They have great potential for individual growth through exploring independence and life opportunities. It is a critical window of opportunity for youth and young adults to gain an education and/or training that would. This can include developing knowledge, skills, and character traits that are important for opportunity youth's career pathway development. Life circumstances, such as where someone lives or income level, can disrupt youth's ability to explore and pursue different careers

Many youths often face hardships, but they also report having feelings of responsibility for their futures, having educational and career goals, and being optimistic about achieving their goals. To most effectively reach out to opportunity, it is important to understand what programming and resources are currently available to individuals, parents/guardians, and organizations that work with opportunity youth.

It's not just the Indian youth, it's the youth in general, overall, everywhere. The youth nowadays is so used to having news on their palms that they take-for-granted, whatever they're reading to be true.

They don't do research because the majority of the media will tell you what other media houses do, and simply because the youth lack resources of research for proofs in certain situations. Like, for example, you're 18 years of age. I wouldn't expect you to know how many people were killed in a plane crash, be it 20 or 45. I would just expect you to know a crash took place. Simply because the youth cannot investigate and doesn't want to either. And saying that "They think they're always right" is an overstatement. Change the group of youth you're talking to. I hope this helps. Peace.

Youth Issues And Development

-by Sanvi Mehta ,India

Who are the youth of today's world? Today, it is the millennials and the Gen Z that are emerging as the two generations who make up a large portion of today's youth. They are society's main agents of change and progress. It is said that youth is a synonym of what our future will be but all I can see is it is a synonym for an unskilled and under-developed future here people don't care about the environment. This is all because the youth is struggling with problems like depression, bullying, sexual activity, drugs and alcohol, obesity, academic Problems, addiction to social media and many more. An average of 31 children died by suicide everyday in 2020. As a young, they strongly believe in taking their own decisions whether personal or social and when it comes to them taking the load of responsibility on their shoulders, they tend to refuse it. Today's youth is outgoing, extravagant in their desires and less into their studies; they are stubbornly living a luxurious lifestyle and know less of their own future and the hardwork leading to success.

Development tends to take place when one realises his/her standing among others in the terms of skills and knowledge. To raise their own graph they need to lead their own self and know their strengths and weaknesses. Families, schools and society also play an important role in youth development.

For positive youth development they:-

- Must support
- Healthy communication and better understanding
- Organise programs and initiatives
- Be role model to them
- Guide them in times of need

Youth issues and Development

How often have you been pounded by the realization of being an outlier in a world of overachievers? Worse, how often have you pushed yourself to change your ways or impersonate being someone you don't identify with just to fitting in?

Living in an age where every minor aspect of our life is penetrated by the Internet, the answer to the above questions won't be of great surprise. There's no denying of the importance of the internet, information forums and influencers alike, but is it not bewildering to assess the amount of influence they've had on our lives? Write a short note about yourself?.... Daunting? Write a short note on any Instagram influencer. The difference is clear.

Now and then you'll find a 22-year-old gladly announcing their successful entrepreneurial journey of building a unicorn while you're struggling with assignment deadlines. Why couldn't I?

The level of influence may range from mere sartorial choices to career decisions. Unsurprisingly, the suicidal death rates in 2020 far exceeded the deaths due to Covid-19, a glaring comment on the severity of mental health in the cohort burdened with the pressure to fall in line, to be able to stand out.

The main reasons for poor mental health among the young adults in Asia can be summarised as follows-

- Perfectionism- Is there any space for mediocrity?
- Stoicism- Can you afford to show yourself weak?
- Inter-Generational Gap- Can you convey what suits you best to your parents easily?

"Beautiful is the bloom of youth, but it lasts only for a short time"

Is there a way to out? Simpler than you thought. Make a little effort to browse through the struggle that goes into the making of a unicorn. Never equate the beginning and end rather, compare the process with outcome. Socialise with people around. You'll find all are the same.

Everyone shares insecurities, phobias and doubts in the face of what is to come. Utilise every opportunity to gain experience and give in your best, disregarding the outcome. Understand who you are, what your core values are, and what you are best at.

Youth issues and Development

The concept of youth can be defined as the period of a person's life where an individual life begins at the end of childhood and enters adulthood. When an individual reaches the stage of maturity, they are considered to have reached their physical and social development stage. Youth constitute a high portion of the world's population and represent competition, challenges, as well as development opportunities. They are key to helping societies with their thought processes.

Young people are innovative and creative in problem-solving and also in finding solutions to society's problems. The average young person spends time on their devices, which may create social or mental health problems such as depression, cyberbullying, sexual activity, obesity, etc. Because of digital development, many young people lack essential interpersonal communication skills.

Youth development is based on positive influence, which can help young people succeed and keep them from having problems. Positive youth development favors leadership and skill-building opportunities under the guidance of caring and understanding adults or parents. One should never be afraid to have uncomfortable conversations with your teenager. It can be hard to introduce a difficult topic to the youngster, but it is crucial to talk up and acknowledge with them. In one's young person's life, parents are the most inspirational figure. Well before the period of opportunity closes, it's critical to create a solid foundation. Try to be not harsh, but be clear about your objectives and viewpoints. Pay attention to what your teen has to communicate and react to it. 2. How would you capture our company vision?

Youth Empowerment

-by Aketch Kennedy, India

In our generations today, everyone lacks something that someone else is owning. This is why everyone needs to be lifted and given the opportunity to explore their best potentials. This urgent need is even more pressing among the youths not only in Kenya and Africa where I am from, but all across the world. White or black, everyone needs to be better than they are today(empowered). Youth empowerment therefore is the ability of the young people to gain the authority to make informed decisions and implement change in their lives as well as the lives of others. To sum up on this, I will focus on the importance of youth empowerment as well as the ways to empower our youths worldwide.

Importance of youth empowerment

Everyone is important but an empowered youth is valuable. Empowerment is the belief that young people are capable of incredible things as revealed on the importance of youth empowerment in the coming paragraphs. When these stars have exposure to right and inspiring ideas, opportunities, skills, people and the tools to build their confidence, they can make the greatest change in the world. This is according to Peterson(2011) in his article Measuring youth empowerment. This is evident in Kenya today through a youth movement called HESABIKA which I am part of as peer mentor. When it started, it had the aim of safeguarding every young person's right through training and mentorship.

Today many youths in kenya are part of the fight against erly marriage as well as stop female genital mutilation campains in harid parts of kenya as a result of exposing youths to the knowledge of their rights, and people to impact them to create positivechange. I therefore believe an empowered youth is agenation saved from vanishing.

"Youth empowerment for sustainable development"

Empowered young people recognize their capabilities, self-determination and worth. The importance of every living person is the ability to achieve their all time confidence in answering the questions of WHO am I, WHAT do I stand for and HOW can I be the person of my dreams as alluded by Myles Monroe in his book Pursuit for Purpose. When a young person is mentored and guided to understand their potentials and what they can achieve, they live to be the greatest assets for a better generation.

My own experience as a young boy growing up in Africa from a very poor family is a reason enough to push everyone to empower a young person for a positive change. I had all the reasons to give up my life were it not for the Mango Tree Orphan support trust organization that shaped my life and Dreams of education. The organization took me into peer training for self realization and mind opening sessions to lead me into understanding the magnitude of my self worth. Today, I am a youth mentor at HESABIKA, a graduate, an aspiring changemaker in the field of entrepreneurship, a volunteer with Project 55 Afrika something which could have remained a mere dream were it not for the opportunity granted onto me. Nobody therefore should undermine the power within one youth empowered in a community.

Youth empowerment is a tool to enhance unity as well as reduce crimes among nations of the world. Youths are the largest population of the world according to the World Bank reports of 2015/2016 which I still believe is the reality today. Every developing country is faced with an imbalance in providing empowerment and job opportunities to its youths equally. This has resulted in a lot of ethnic conflicts in different countries with a case study of Kenya that Experienced Post Election Violence in 2007.

According to the Reports by Amnesty International, the majority of the people who were involved in this conflict were the youths aged 18 to 35. Were it that all these youths had sources of income and employment, they would have learnt the importance of peace and living as a people of one country. It's my hope that every authority in all the Countries in the world will work towards youths skills empowerment to create more job opportunities for the youth population lying idle. This kind of empowerment will safeguard the youths from being used to disrupt the good cohesion among people by venturing into crimes, robbery as well as drug abuse. Ways of empowering the youths There are several ways to empower youths that can be employed to create a better society as will unveil in the following paragraphs.

Helping teens to explore their interests and potentials is one way that can't be ignored in the journey to transformation through empowerment. The youthful stage is a stage to develop curiosity and desire to grasp new things. Leading these people into the right information sources such as books, movies , seminars as well as one on one talk helps get them prepared to take their lives with the rightful seriousness as well as recognizing what career , talent and potentials in every young person.Wilson in his 2007 journal "Engaging young adolescents in social action through photovoice agreed to this fact. The youth empowerment strategies (YES!) project" alluded to the fact that when the youths are engaged in activities and provoking questions such as can help greatly. When these youths develop interest in different fields, they deepen their confidence in their abilities and end up into very great contributors of change in the world.

"Youths are the leaders of tomorrow".

Giving youths space and trust to realize their potential. The old saying goes that This saying has made the adults in our societies to keep on ignoring different generations of youths on active change creation in leadership, business as well as family matters. I believe that putting trust in a young man is a confidence booster in what they can do, how far they can move and a feeling of acceptance. This is one way of empowering the youths to start the change process as written by author John Maxwell in his book Change your world. John believes everyone has something to offer when their ideas are accepted and space is set to enable them to practice what they can do. This is therefore a call to include the youths in decision making, engage them in brainstorming to come up with new ideas as one way of boosting their confidence in creating a better world for everyone.

Trust their ability as leaders. From working on school projects to managing a household chore to leading community service events, in youth-led efforts, let young people own the trajectory of the assignment. This should start from planning to execution as stated by Chang in his work on Youth Empowerment for Sustainable Development. Adults can be a guide when they make mistakes or need to be redirected but give them the space to try it their way first as stated by John Maxwell in his book Winning With People.

When youths are empowered, they feel confident and capable. They become active contributors and collaborators, excited to explore their impact on the world around them.

"The rich don't sleep eight hours solving the problems of the poor in the world."

Empower youths to become problem solvers in our society. Everyone has something they probably don't like about their families, schools, governments and so on. This is something that they don't like and by failing to sleep with the mud on their hands, they find ideas they believe will create long lasting solutions to their world. Well, the Youths must also be problem solvers to what our problems such as un employment, discrimination, poverty as well as climate change are solved.

I believe that our young generations should be empowered with the right skills to solve climate problems, food shortage as well as pandemics like viruses such as corona, water conservation and critical thinking skills if we have to create a society of change makers. Technology is taking shape to solve our world's problems, every young man must be empowered with at least one skill that makes the world the best place to live. Cory Kromray, the founder of the Driven trading company in the USA says that a skill to solve a problem in the digital field is the greatest need of all the American youths.

in his work I believe completely that these skills are necessary to empower all the youths worldwide. We can all contribute something when given the right skills. Finally, youths must be given the opportunity to interact with others. Share their skill through avenues such as sports, talent search, creativity and innovation opportunities for them to get the chance to explore their abilities. Therefore, there are the schools, churches, mosques and different organizations dealing with the youths across the world to work towards creating opportunities for the young Generations to explore all their potentials.
